Founded in 1982, Camp Ronald McDonald for Good Times is one of the nation's largest recreational camp programs for children with cancer and their families - and the only program in Southern California. Camp activities are specifically designed to meet the physical needs of campers, and to develop social and emotional competencies in youth who have lost much of their childhood to treatment and hospital stays. At the same time, camp programs connect children and parents with others who face the same day to day challenges and help families build a network of support. Camp is a program of the Ronald McDonald House Charities of Southern California ("RMHCSC").
